To Whom It May Concern:

Bechtel was the Main Contractor for British Gas Tunisia's Hannibal Root and Branch Project, which was executed during the period, July 2002 and August 2003. The project entailed upgrade of the existing Hannibal Gas Plant at Sfax, Tunisia. Pireco was awarded the site mechanical work for the Project. Pireco's scope included piping fabrication, equipment erection, piping installation, insulation and painting.

Pireco's workmanship was good and the work was completed on schedule. Pireco and its site team executed the work in a professional manner. Pireco's senior management provided the necessary support to the site team and extended its co-operation to Bechtel.

Overall, the project was completed successfully. Pireco made a significant contribution towards project success. It was a pleasure working with Pireco.
